Like being there.

Revolutionize the way you work with our Web-based remote access and support technologies.

Company Overview

Founded in 1997, Expertcity, Inc. is the leading provider of Web-based remote-access and customer-support technologies. The company's award-winning screen-sharing technology enables users to view and control a remote computer via the Web, thus enabling enterprise-critical functions such as internal and external Web-based technical support; online sales and customer service; and remote access.

DesktopStreaming™

Virtual On-Site Support Solution

DesktopStreaming™ is a highly flexible, real-time support solution that allows your organization to effectively manage customers. It offers unmatched features designed to accommodate remote problem solving, administration, support, training and issue resolution. Offering centralized, secure administration, DesktopStreaming features industry-recognized encryption, scalable Web-based architecture and the flexibility to support your organization's most valuable asset — your customers.

GoToMyPC™

Remote Access for the Enterprise

GoToMyPC Corporate™ is a managed service for secure remote access that empowers your employees to get the job done from wherever they are. It reduces the costs and complexity associated with other remote-access solutions; offers administrators the highest levels of security and control; and immediately increases your employees' productivity.
